

OVERVIEW

Panasas is the leading provider of high-performance storage for the world’s most performance and data-intensive applications. Panasas storage systems significantly accelerate high performance applications’ overall throughput and ultimately accelerates time-to-market or “time-to-answer” for complex products and simulations. Panasas is renowned for our technological innovation and patents in parallel storage architecture, and is leading an industry-wide initiative to standardize an approach to these next-generation storage systems. Industry leaders worldwide are using Panasas ActiveStor storage to deliver unprecedented breakthroughs in energy exploration, financial analysis, climate modeling, manufacturing design, financial and portfolio analysis, computational fluid dynamics and physics, digital animation, genetic research, and many similar, complex applications.

FOUNDED

Panasas was founded in 1999 and is privately owned.

INVESTORS

Carlyle Venture Partners, Centennial Ventures, Mohr, Davidow Ventures, Evercore Limited Partner, Goldman Sachs, Intel Capital and Novak-Biddle Venture Partners.

PRODUCTS

The Panasas ActiveStor Family is the most comprehensive and scalable family of ultra-high-performance storage in the world. Every ActiveStor platform is based on the Panasas ActiveScale File System—a parallel, global file system architecture providing unmatched performance, scalability, and manageability by enabling multiple, parallel data paths between compute nodes and ActiveStor storage, thereby eliminating the inherent speed and capacity bottlenecks that compromise other solutions.
